

CEDAR RIVER WATERSHED INSTITUTE

SHARE YOUR EXPERTISE, PRESENT A CLASS AND BE A PART OF THE CEDAR RIVER WATERSHED INSTITUTE

We are seeking field instructors who are knowledgeable about the natural and cultural history of the Pacific Northwest and have a desire to share with others through lecture, story and/or art. Programs can range from subalpine ecology to singing around the campfire; preparing for climate change to discovering forest amphibians.

DISCOVER

The array of programs and classes offered through the Institute provide participants with a unique chance to connect to the watershed they depend on for their water supply. Institute programs are full or half day programs that help participants extend their understanding of the unique ecological and cultural history of the region. Institute programs appeal to a wide array of age groups and audiences—artists, families, writers as well as history and science buffs.

LEARN

If you are interested in joining our team of presenters, please contact us at crwprograms@seattle.gov or call (206) 233-1567.

Check out some of our past CRWInstitute offerings at www.seattle.gov/util/crwec

EXPLORE

Seattle Public Utilities' Cedar River Watershed Institute connects people to their water source and inspires healthy relationships within all watersheds by offering science, art, and cultural education programs.

